Tutoring Experience

For the past five years, I've guided students through IGCSE and A-Level History, helping them explore significant events and historical contexts. My experience covers diverse topics, from European to Asian history, providing students with a comprehensive understanding of the subject.

Having worked with students from South Korea, the UK, and beyond, I understand the nuances of various international curriculums. My teaching approach focuses on building a solid foundation in historical analysis, enabling students to achieve high marks and progress in their academic studies.
