Tutoring Experience

Over the past decade, I have worked with students across North America, Europe, and Asia, preparing them for exams and advanced academic challenges. My expertise includes guiding students through challenging physics topics such as mechanics, thermodynamics, and electromagnetism, ensuring they excel in their studies.

I've also supported students preparing for competitive university applications, including admissions tests and interviews. My focus has always been on fostering a deep understanding of physics concepts, enabling my students to confidently tackle their academic goals and pursue successful careers in STEM fields.
